> OBITUARY. Death of Daniel Healy.

Daniel Healy, one of the oldest Irish residents of the city, died at his home, 1114 State street, yesterday morning of general debility.

He was one of the first employes of the Candee Rubber company, going into their employ on the first organization of the company. He was afterward in partnership with Michael R. Enscoe in the wholesale liquor business at Grand avenue. For the past twenty-five years he was more or less active in the dealing of real estate.

He leaves a widow and four daugh-ters, Mrs. John J. Ferry of Meriden, Mrs. John F. Cow, Mrs. J. J. Buchanan of this city and Miss Margaret Healy of this city. Two brothers and a sis ter also mourn him, Thomas Healy of Hamilton street, Patrick Healy in Treland and Mrs. Patrick Klirain of Winchester avenue. Mr. Healy was a town assessor in 1874-5. He was about seventy-five years of age. The deceased was a man of strict integrity. upright, firm in his connections, a kind friend and neighbor and a good citizen. Many old friends will regret his death and honor his memory.

New Haven Colony Historical Society. The monthly meeting of the society will be held in Colonial hall next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A paper will be read by Henry T. Blake, Esq., on "New Haven Green, from 1639 to 1862, as a Religious and Ecclesiastical Arena." After the reading there will be an informal reception for the members and their families in the rooms below.

ANNIVERSARY. FIFTIETH

MEMBERS OF ST. PAUL'S PARISH CELEBRATE ITS ORGANIZATION.

Interesting Historical Paper by John C. Hollister, the Senior Warden-Remarks by Rev. E. S. Lines-Refreshments Served

The fiftieth anniversary of the organization of St. Paul's parish was celebrated at the parish house last evening and was largely attended. The principal feature was a paper by the senior warden, the first part of which will be found below. After he had read the paper Rev. Mr. Lines made a few remarks in which he read an extract from a New Haven paper of April 27, 1829, in which was published date as the Church of the Ascension; the address of Rev. Henry Crosswell at the laying of the corner stone of the audience after which refreshments were served to the company present.

St. Paul's church building was erected by Trinity church as a chapel in

The population of New Haven at this time was 10,678. Trinity parish, since the consecration of the church in 1816, had more than doubled its number of ommunicants, and a larger accommo ation became absolutely necessary. It was the first instance of erecting a cond Episcopal church in any city of Connecticut.

ber, 1827, purchased for $2,500 the lot on the corner of Chapel and Olive streets on which St. Paul's church now stands. The lot purchased by them did not in-clude the land next south, belonging to Dr. Charles Hooker, on which now stands the chancel of St. Paul's church, stands the chancel of St. Paul's church, as extended in 1873, and a portion of all the bearings, the committee (with the their new parish house.

Afterwards on the 5th of Feb., 1828, in pursuance of a covenant made by them, Titus Street and Samuel Hughes, from whom the lot was purchased, conveyed the same to the Rev. Harry Croswell, in trust at the expiration of two years from December 15, 1827, to convey the same "to the Society of Trinity church, in fee simple, forever," if said society should then pay to him the purchase money, interest and taxes, for the benefit of Nathan Smith and other purchasers, to whom, in default of payment, the lot was to be conveyed by said trustee.

The wardens and vestry of Trinity church voted that measures ought to be taken to erect a chapel in the new township, to be forever united to Trinity church, so as to accommodate members of the church with pews, and with the further view to settle the Rev. Francis L. Hawks, as sisistant minister of the church.

The project of building a chapel was no doubt hastened by an offer made by Mary Wooster Ogden on the 28th of Miss Ogden proposed to convey to the society of Trinity church an equal un-divided molety of several lots of land situated on Wooster and Chapel streets, valued at $3,000, on condition that the society should secure to her an annuity of $180 per annum in quarterly payments, and that the society should take immediate steps to erect a chapel in the new township.

The society of Trinity church at a special meeting held August 4, 1828. oted to accept this offer, to give bonds for the annuity and to pledge as collateral for the same, so much of the income from the Glebe lands, am might be necessary.

Steps were at once taken to raise done by creating a stock debt. The croner stone of St. Paul's chapel was laid April 18, 1829, and the building consecrated April 22, 1830. At this time Trinity was the only Episcopal parish within the limits of the town of New Haven, and continued to be the only one for nearly fifteen years, the only exception being James, Westville, which was admitted into union with the convention in 1835. The parish of St. James church, Fair Haven, was organized in 1843, and 1844 thirty families of colored people withdrew from Trinity church, and formed a separate parish by the name of St. Luke's church. In addition to these changes, taking place in this ancient church—the mother of the churches in New Haven, the question of a further division of Trinity parish had for some time been agitated by the worshippers at St. aul's chapel, as well as by many others from Trinity church, who still intended to retain their connection with This desire of a separation and the formation of a new society, may have been due in some measure, to the state of feeling then existing among church people. It was a time of unrest and party strife. It was soon after the Oxford movement in England, and the publication of the "Tracts for the Times." There was a disposition to call the people at Trinity church, high churchmen, and those at St. Paul's church, low ourchmen. Rev. Mr. Lines, in a paper read to the ministers of New Haven last November, aptly describes the state of feeling. He says: "There were a good many people in the church a half century ago who outside, and many of our congregations were hardly more than companies of Congregationalists using a prayer After fifty years have passed, it is curious and instructive to read a recent article written by Hon. William E. Gladstone, and published in an English magazine. This venerable observer dedares that the Evangelical became an individualist and forgot the corpor-ate unity of the body to which he beonged; that so far from being antagonfstic, the Tractarian movement was the complement if the development of the Evangelical movement; that Evangelicanism was the cradle, it may ever be called the parent of Tractarianism He avers that the Evangelicals furnished most of the seceders to Rome The English high churchmen were content to remain where they were. The seceders were not the Hooks, Keble and men of that stamp, but Manning ures of this party strife, there have come to the church a broader tolera-tion, a truer and freer recognition of a common Chistianity, the conscious ness of a substantial agreement and the conviction that the church is a large place, where differences of opinion can be recognized." While this feeling of controversy among church people may have influenced some to demand a separate organization, the real reason was no oubt the strong belief that the time had come for a new parish, and that the whole church would be benefited

The result of such a belief was strong shown eight or ten years later, when e aggressive work originated at St Paul's church during the rectorship of or. Littlejohn resulted in the formation of St. John's church and the mission of St. Paul's chapel, organized at a later and chiefly by the liberality of a single family in Trinity church a chapel was erected on land at the corner of Elm and church April 18, 1829. His remarks were Park streets, and consecrated in Janistened to with great interest by the uary, 1854, by the name of Christ church St. Thomas' church was also organized

How early this movement for a separation from Trinity church began annot say. The first recorded action was at the Easter meeting in 1843, when committee of ten was appointed to onsider and report upon the expedien-

y of such a division. This committee of ten at the Easter meeting in 1844 made the following re-

The committee appointed on Easter Monday, 1843, to consider the expediency of dividing said parish respectfully in reference to the subject; that at their first meeting a portion of the commit ee were in some doubt in regard to the expediency of a division of the parish intil some future time, and there also prevailed an impression in the minds of nearly all their number that there might be an insuperable legal obstacle to a division at any time; but on a full ed acting with them from the time of his appointment) were able to adopt unantmously the subjoined resolution at their last meeting, when there were present Messrs. Charles A. Ingersoll, William W. Boardman, Charles Hooker, William A. Reynolds, Elias Plerpont, Sidney A. Thomas and James Babcock, Mesers. Stephen D. Pardee and Eleazer K. Poster, who were absent, subsequent saw and approved the resolution, which is in the words following:

Resolved. That in the opinion of the ommittee, if there should be great unanimity among the members of the society in favor of a division, it would be expedient that such division take place, if in such event there would be no insuperable legal difficulty to such division.

Two weeks later, at an adjourned meeting of the society, the following vote, offered by Nathan Smith, was passed by a vote of thirty-seven in the affirmative and thirty-two in the nega-

"Resolved, That the future prosperity of the parish of Trinity would be promoted by a dissolution of the connection which at present exists between Trinity church and St. Paul's chapel, provided that the dissolution can be legally effected."

The legal question hinted at in the above resolution was this: Could the society of Trinity church legally transfer St. Paul's chapel to another parish formed or to be formed, under the terms of the sixth section of the articles of subscription to the stock for building St. Paul's chapel? That article provides

Trinity church to appropriate said chapel to a society distinct from the society of said Trinity church. Governor Roger S. Baldwin's advice upon this legal question having been ought by the vestry of Trinity church he gave his opinion to this effect, that as the land on which the building was erected was not originally subject to the restrictions of the said sixth article, and the deed from Rev. Harry Croswell, the trustee of the original purchasers, conveyed an absolute title to Trin ity church "in fee simple, forever," and the sixth article was intended to be merely an additional security to the subscribers of the stock, for the payment of their shares, whenever such payment should be made to the satis-faction of the shareholders, the parish

Acting upon this advice, the society of Trinity church, at cheir annual meet ing, March 24, 1845, authorized the transfer of the chapel and the lot on which stands to a new Episcopal society when formed, said new society agreeing to assume all the obligations resting on said society of Trinity church, to the stockholders in St. Paul's chapel.
